1 - meet larry!

larry the oyster was a quiet little fellow. more quiet than your ordinary oyster. he strolled to work on the ground floor of the "coral reef shopping mall" everyday without saying a word. his job like the rest of his life was away from the public; stacking shelves in a back room. it wasnt that he didnt want to talk to people and make friends. it wasnt that he was incapable of speaking. he had a condition common in oysters called...shyness.

there was a prescription called confidence that larry's doctor(bill the squid) said larry had to find himself. larry found this terribly inappropriate but was too shy to say so.

one day larry was on his way home from work. he passed through the usual crowds and passing the posh estate, "crustacian crescent"; where krel road sardines to work, when a recruitment officer stopped by.

"hello sonny jim. you look like a fine lad. i wonder would you be willing to join me whilst i take a group of fish up to the himilaya's to meditate for a spell. were going to enlighten our spirits and broaden our horizons. oh and we'll be seeking our inner confidence of course...y'know same old, same old..."

'golly gosh!' larry thought. 'just what i need.' larry nodded his head in reply (for you see he was too shy to actually speak.)

"okalidokalidoo" cheered the kind officer, dude, man, fish, thingy...

next time on larry's big adventures-larry goes to the himalaya's, but what awaits him there? hmm...hmm...do you know? cause if you do you better tell me now...okay...right now
